

Beginning with a smile

Ten thousand free smiley buttons will be given away this week in conjunction with "Y' Pride Week", a culmination of activities, projects and displays dedicated toward raising funds for the Library and honoring student government.

"The idea of the week," according to Social Office representative Anthony Antonelli, "is to make students aware of what's being done on campus. We're doing this to give them a chance to be proud of BYU."

"Y' Pride Week" also represents a cross of efforts between student government and the administration to work toward a common goal. In this case, the establishment of the Library.

Mark McConkie, administrative assistant to ASBYU President Reed Wilcox, has set up a twenty member Student Foundation committee for the purpose of raising funds for the project. The committee is working with several ideas in the balance, including a student stock market in the building and sign-ups for projects for the library.

In addition to raising funds, the Social

Office will also be turning its efforts toward giving students a chance to view the inner workings of student government and the Social Office. Displays of concerts, dances, Fun Company, Newlywed Game and Dating Game, Dine Flicks, advertising, Homecoming and the Library project will be set up in the Reception Center of the ELWC from Monday through Wednesday of this week. The smiley buttons will be given away at one of the booths. There will also be an open house in the Social Office on Wednesday from 12 to 5. Free ice cream will be offered to all who come to view the workings on fourth floor, ELWC.

The Social Office is considering a Rocking Chair Marathon to be held from Thursday to Saturday in the Reception Center. Students entering the contest would have sponsors paying for each hour they rock. More information on the marathon will be released within the week.

"Y' Pride Week" will end Saturday night with a free dance in the ELWC Ballroom with music by Peace and Quiet. Donations will be accepted.

President Dallin Oaks wears one of 10,000 free smiley buttons which will be scattered among students to launch Y-Pride Week.

No automatic end

prices, wages curbed

Chilly atmosphere clouds freeze halt

By ROLF KOECHER
Asst. News Editor

President Nixon's wage-price freeze came to a confusing halt Saturday with financial temperatures remaining colder than many Provo residents think.

Many students when asked what will happen to rents and prices during Phase 2 of Nixon's economic policy responded simply, "I don't really know!" Provo landlords seemed equally perplexed as to the situation, some not knowing what to do and others planning upon charging more.

According to Roland V. Wise, Utah

Internal Revenue Service District Director, there will be no automatic ending to the freeze on wages, prices or rents. In a directive from the IRS District Office, it was noted that "Inquiries being received at the IRS offices indicate that many landlords and others erroneously believe that rents, prices and wages may be raised at the end of the 90 day freeze period."

TO CLARIFY THIS, Director Wise cited G.A. Lincoln, Director of the Office of Emergency Preparedness: "The rules and guidelines established by regulation, order, directive, or circular provisions for stabilization of wages, prices and rents did not expire automatically on November 13. Changes will occur only through explicit action by the Pay Board, the Price Commission, the Cost of Living Council or other competent authority."

Nixon administration officials admitted that consumers and businesses will be operating largely in the dark today since formal regulations have been published in the Federal Register only since Saturday. Mr. Wise felt that proposed rate increases such as the 50 cent charge for Variety Theater tickets in effect this week were not permissible, but that definite rulings could only be made after more federal guidelines are available.

RENTS, HOWEVER, will definitely remain frozen until the yet-to-be established Rent Board can determine definite guidelines to govern future increases. In the interim, rents may only go up if the landlord can show a clear case of financial hardship. In this case, the national headquarters of the OEP said, "Landlords are required to record and make available upon request both the unit freeze period rent and the basis for any adjustments."

Although there is still much speculation surrounding the details of Phase 2, the administration has set a clear general goal,

Eighth inauguration

Distinguished gathering

"I represent the Board of Trustees and officially inaugurate and install you as new president of Brigham Young University."

With these words of Elder Harold B. Lee of the First Presidency of the Church, the mantle of the BYU presidency fell upon the shoulders of Dallin Harris Oaks, the eighth holder of the title.

President Joseph Fielding Smith presided over the inauguration ceremonies. Elder N. Eldon Tanner conducted the proceedings.

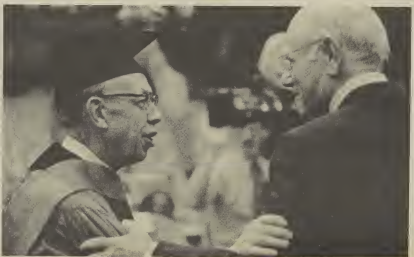

A surprise dignitary at the ceremonies was Dr. Ernest L. Wilkinson, president emeritus of BYU. Wilkinson, who is recovering from recent open heart surgery, was accompanied by his wife.

The new president responded to greetings from Church and university officials.

"I have stated our two primary goals for the future; first to reinforce our drive for excellence as an academic institution and second, to preserve the distinctive spiritual character and standards of BYU.

"We should continue to concentrate on the training, self-discipline and conduct of the individual."

"I hope we will remember that the most important thing about every member of this university community is that he or she is a son or daughter of God. It is our goal to have all members of this community, in all their dealings with one another and with all mankind, set an example of Christian living for the entire world to see."

Papooes dump Kittens, 30-13

The University of Utah freshman football team extended their winning streak to 15 when they outplayed BYU's 30-13 Saturday at Ute stadium.

It was the last game of the season for both freshman teams. BYU ended up with a 1-3 record for the season.

Utah running back Steve Marlowe rushed for three touchdowns in the Papoose's winning effort. Redskin quarterback Homer Warner connected on a 63-yard scoring pass to Danny Marrelli in the game's highlight play.

BYU first got on the scoreboard in the second quarter when QB Dan Teckenhoff found the end zone after a 16-yard sprint from scrimmage.

The other BYU touchdown came in the second half when Charlie Ah You plunged from two yards out for six points.

Paced by sophomore Richard Reid, the BYU cross-country team literally ran away with the WAC championship race at Ft. Collins, Colo.

The Cougars nipped Arizona 63 to 67 for the team title while the pre-meet favorite and defending champion, UTEP wound up third with 84.

Reid, who finished sixth last year as a freshman, shifted gears with a mile of the hilly, six-mile course remaining and left individual favorites, John Bednarski of UTEP and Ken Gerry of Arizona far behind. Reid's winning time of 31:17 put him nearly thirty seconds ahead of Gerry (31:45) while Bednarski finished third (31:56). It was the biggest winning margin ever in WAC cross-country competition.

No team can win with one man alone and Reid had plenty of help. Freshman Steve Jensen matched Reid's sixth place finish of last year (32:06) and Mitch Wiley gave the Mountain Cats three men in the top ten with his eighth place performance. Sam Francis (18th) and another freshman, Leon Hansen (30th) rounded out BYU's scoring runners.

All runners were slowed by strong, gusty winds which blew at 50-60 m.p.h. and by numerous, steep hills.

"The thing that really won it for us was our team spirit," said Cougar mentor, Sherald James. "Without my knowledge the team got together the night before the meet and decided that they were going to win. This is the finest group of young men that I have ever worked with," remarked James.

For the Cougars, it was the third cross-country championship since the formation of the WAC. BYU won the loop title in 1964 and 1967.

The Cougar harriers are a young club, and their victory reveals good things for the future. Coach James can count on at least two more years of competition from all his team members.

Stop your coming and your going. Stay.

Profiles

Indian educator

BYU Indian student George P. Lee was recently presented a plaque by President Oaks honoring the young educator for his outstanding accomplishments in the field of Indian education.

Last year Lee was selected as the only Indian among the top 20 outstanding young educators of the United States to receive United States Office of Education fellowships.

Lee, now studying for his doctorate degree in Educational Administration under a Ford Foundation Fellowship, has assisted in planning improvements for numerous Indian Education programs plus assisting Senator Edward Kennedy and other key senators to frame the "Comprehensive Indian Education Bill," which is now pending in Congress.

Speaker-winner

Linda McCarter was awarded first prize in the Donald C. Sloan Extemporary Speaking Contest recently. Linda, a speech and dramatic arts major, from Fresno, Calif., spoke on "Phase II, Nixon's wage and price controls. Will they work?"

In preparation for the event, each speaker was required to familiarize himself with Time Magazine, U.S. News and World Report, and Newsweek from the past three months. Each speaker was given a topic 30 minutes before the contest started.

Other winners were Mike Coll who took second prize, and Rick Ochoa, third prize.

Miss Arizona

"A beauty contest is challenging and a lot of work, and even if everyone can't win, everyone does," says Marilyn Bushman, Miss Navajo County, Arizona.

Miss Bushman, a freshman at BYU, will represent her county in the Miss Arizona contest to be held Feb. 2-3 in Phoenix.

A nursing major from Joseph City, Arizona, Marilyn was one of 17 girls vying for the title. She displayed competence in singing, dancing and playing the piano.

Security info in circulation

Social security protection for young workers and their families is described in detail in a new edition of a booklet available at the Provo Social Security Office at 170 North 200 West, according to Don Donaldson, social security district manager.

The 24-page booklet is called "Social Security Information for Young Families." It explains how young workers may get monthly social security benefits if they become severely disabled and how their families may get benefits if the worker dies prematurely.

Single copies of "Social Security Information for Young Families" are free on request at the social security office.

Wage-price cover off, movie ticket fees rise

Ticket prices for the Varsity Theater and the Weekend Movie held in the Joseph Smith Auditorium will increase from 35 cents to 50 cents starting today.

The increase in price was necessary because of the purchase of two new projectors and a new sound system for the Varsity Theater, said Jay Eltner, assistant business director of the Wilkinson Center. The equipment was installed some time ago, but the scheduled price increase was caught in the wage-price freeze.

The old equipment of the Varsity Theater will be used for the Weekend Movie. This will allow the use of the old Weekend Movie projector for the creation of another campus movie area by next semester.

Creative prices to be collected by Wye editors

Spring has just about sprung, according to Wye magazine deadlines.

Working months in advance, Wye editor Robert Morris has announced Friday as the deadline of the submission of manuscripts for the Spring issue.

Manuscripts must be taken to the office of Wye adviser Richard Crockett, A-215 JKB, or Morris at 401 No. 900 E., Apt. 16.

The editors had indicated that important changes in the Wye's format, content, layout, and art will be effected in the forthcoming issue.

"These changes will help make the Wye more scholarly, dignified, and appealing to the creative interests on campus," said Morris.

Mayhew writing contest ready for student entries

Winners of the Vern Hinckley Mayhew short story contest will divide $500 in award money.

Students should submit entries between Jan. 1 and Feb. 15, 1972 to Dr. Bruce B. Clark (A-129 JKB), dean of the College of Humanities, who is chairman of the contest's administrative committee.

Dean Clark indicated that the contest was established at BYU in 1964 by Wayne E. Mayhew of Berkeley, Calif. who donated into a trust fund an annual award for short story writing in honor of his wife, Vera Hinckley Mayhew, a former BYU student.

The contest, said Clark, is open to both undergraduate students registered for at least 10 credit hours and graduate students registered for at least eight credit hours during the semester the manuscript is submitted. The stories may treat any theme and be of any type in short story form. They must be the original unpublished work of the student submitting them and between 2500 and 8000 words long, he continued.

Clark said the winners will be announced several weeks after the Feb. 15 deadline. He noted that generally, the $500 award is divided among four winners, with the first-place winner receiving $250, second-place $125, third-place $75, and fourth-place $50. However, the judges have the option of dividing the $500
